

FILM, MEDIA AND ENTERTAINMENT

Whether you are making a small documentary film, hosting a public event or a festival, or are a large commercial production house, you have unique insurance requirements that call for the expertise of a broker specializing in film, media, and entertainment insurance.

You need to be able to trust that your broker understands the risks you face, including:

- Crowd control
- High-risk exposure such as stunts and special effects
- Pyrotechnics
- Foreign and high-risk shooting locations
- Usage of aircraft, watercraft and railroad
- Key cast including essential element
- Animal participation

Furthermore, you should receive expert advice as to the type of protection that best suits your specific situation, amongst others:

- Entertainment package (includes pre-production, cast, essential elements, camera, set, wardrobe and props, etc.)
- Comprehensive general liability and umbrella liability (including stunts and special effects)
- Producers' and broadcasters' Errors & Omissions insurance
- Miscellaneous coverage (e.g. animal mortality, political risk, worker's compensation, foreign liability, etc.)
- Multi-media (property insurance, general liability and media Errors & Omissions)
- Non-appearance and cancellation of event insurance for promoters of live entertainment (e.g. concerts and theatrical performances, conferences or trade shows)
